

Wednesday Night-
Jan. 26, '66

Dear Bonnie:

Your letter received yesterday and I shall hasten a reply. So nice to have a letter once more. I had planned writing you this week but you beat me to it. And I guess it's well you did.

I began right after the holidays writing my thank you notes. After writing three I fell by the wayside as usual.

Right now, I wish to thank the Updegrove family for remembering me at Christmas time. Due to conditions beyond our control, in a part Letter written to Bonnie from her grandmother Katherine Bondeena Yakey Arnold (Nanna). Nanna was 88 years old when she wrote this letter.

Dear Bonnie:

Your letter received yesterday and I shall hasten a reply. So nice to have a letter once more. I had planned writing you this week but you beat me to it. And I guess it's well you did. I began right after the holidays writing my thank you notes. After writing three I fell by the wayside as usual. Right now I wish to thank the Updegrove family for remembering me at Christmas time. Due to conditions beyond our control, in a part of my family, near and at Christmas time, I made no preparations whatever for the holidays. Asking only for restore health.

We all enjoyed our little visit with the family. It was planned for the holiday season of '64 but weather conditions prevented.

So glad the boys have a bath up on their floor!

How they must enjoy it!

And the dear little organ!

What a joy for the whole family. I always loved organ music. When I see a picture of a family group around an organ playing

When I see a picture of a family group around an organ playing and singing I think what a joy and accomplishment.

My dear Mother had a very sweet Soprano voice. I well remember her singing, as she moved around through the house about her work.

The boys were so obliging
to play for us.

This great blessing of snow which our Heavenly Father is sending upon our dry and parched earth and vegetation
is a reminder that He does supply our needs.

I liked your new Carpet
and covered stair way.

Every addition adds to the Comfort of ones home.
