Dear Will

We are all well. I have no news at all that would interest you.

We understand your school is out, and we want you to come down without fail. If you can't get a horse, write to me and I will send Dan after you. I have bought another mule and will not sell him till I hear from you.

You must come whether you stay long or not. I have to start on to Wise to-morrow with Judge Kilgore.

We have just got through Court here, but did not decide all the cases on the docket, because the Commonwealth Attorney has to start this morning to the Federal Court at Arlington.
